

Whereas by this S C H E M E, there will be saved to the Government above a 1000000 l. So likewise it will be much larger Advantage to the Adventurer; for in the other Proposals, the Adventurer has a Chance but for 36000 l. in laying out of 30 l. when in these Proposals the Adventurer has a Chance for a 120000 l. in only laying out of 10 l. And whereas by the Sale of One Blank in their Proposals, you lose 3 or 4 l. which there can be no more than One Pound lost in this, as will appear in the following Proposals.

TH E R E is to be a Fund Sufficient to pay the Sum of 168,003 per Annum.

There is the whole Number of Benefits in the following Table,

Total Benefits, to be repaid with Interest, at 6 per Cent. per Ann.		1317600

And whereas this Lottery will be more Charge to the Government than the other Proposals, there is 24140 l. over and above the 1000000 l. which is saved to the Government, which 24140 l. will be sufficient to pay the extraordinary Charge.

And for all Sums of 10 l. or upwards, which shall be paid in before the First of August, there shall be an allowance of 4 d. per Cent. per Day, from the respective Day the same shall be paid, to the 25th of December; and in all Sums under 10 l. which shall be paid in before the First of July, there shall be allowed 6 d. out of every Pound for prompt Payment; and for the more speedier disposing of the Tickets, it will be convenient that they should be disposed of in some other Cities, besides London, whereby her Majesty's good Subjects in the Country, may have an Opportunity to try their good Fortunes in the Lottery; and whereas the Number of the Tickets in this Proposal, is Ten times the Number which is in the other; so likewise there will be above Ten times the Number of Adventurers, for where there is one that can spare 10 l. there is a Hundred can spare 1 l. and as for the Drawing, to make a quick dispatch, 180000 Tickets is sufficient for all the Ten Lotteries; the manner of Drawing shall be as follows: There shall be put into one Wheel, marked A, 180000 Tickets to be Numbered progressively from No 1, to No 180000, both Numbers inclusive, which Numbers will Correspond exactly with the Numbers of all the Tickets in every one of the said ten Lotteries. And in another Wheel to be marked B, 15000 Prizes, and 165000 Blanks, the Benefits to contain the Value as is mentioned in the last foregoing Table. And the Numbers which in the drawing, shall happen to be drawn out of the Wheel A, against any Benefit which shall be drawn out of the Wheel B, will entitle the Owners of the like Number in every one of the ten Lotteries to a Benefit of the like Sum, as shall happen to be drawn against that Number or Ticket, for Example, if against Number 700 drawn out of the Wheel A, be a Benefit of 12000 l. then the Owners of Number 700 in every one of the said 10 Lotteries, will be each of them respectively entituled to a Benefit of 12000 l. and in the like manner for the rest of the Benefits.

And there shall likewise be a drawing of 120 Tickets, to determine the Course of Payment, viz. one Ticket for every 125 Original Tickets in each Lottery; so that every Course of payment will contain 1250, which is 125 in every respective Lottery, which drawing will be as that of the last Year; and to the End the Tickets in each of the said Lotteries may be of equal Value, and that there may be no precedence or preference in paying the Tickets in one Lottery before the Tickets of another; the Fund settled for the payment shall first be subject to pay the Interest of every one of the said Lotteries equally, and without any preference: And after payment of the Interest, the rest of the said Fund will be apply'd to pay off the principal equally, on every one of the said Lotteries.

The Interest shall be paid, half Yearly, at 6 per Cent. per Annum, till the principal is paid off, which principal shall be paid at intire payment, according as its Course of

There shall be One Million Eight Hundred Thousand Tickets Issued, at 1 l. per Ticket, which will amount to 1800000 l. the Number of Benefits will be 150000, the Number of Blanks will be 1650000, Total of Both 1800000; so that there is but 11 Blanks to one Benefit. These 1800000 Tickets shall be Divided into 10 Lotteries, 180000 Tickets in each Lotteries; and for each of the Lotteries, there shall be Delivered out 180000 Tickets at 1 l. each, which in all, will amount to the said Sum of 1800000 l. the Tickets in each Lottery will be Numbered from No. 1. to No. 180000, both Number inclusive; and to Distinguish the Tickets of one Lottery from the other, there shall be Printed at the Top of every Ticket of the First Lottery, No. 1. the Second Lottery, No. 2. the Third Lottery, No. 3. the Fourth Lottery, No. 4. and so on till it comes to Ten; and as every Lottery will contain a like Number of Tickets, so they will Likewise contain a like Number of Benefits, and Blanks, according to the following Table, payment shall happen: And for the speedier drawing, it will be convenient that they continue drawing from 6 in the Morning till 6 at Night, which may be done with abundance of Ease, if the Directors divide themselves into three distinct Bodies, and repeat each other every four Hours, whereby the drawing will be finish'd in half the time of that of the last Years.

Note. Here are abundance more high Prizes in this Lottery, than there has been in any, and the lowest Prize is five for one; when in the other Proposals, the lowest is but two for one; and if your Ticket happens to be a Blank in their Proposals, you loose as much by the Sale of one, as you loose by three in this Proposal.

And by disappointing the Stock-jobbers in this, it will do the Nation a piece of Service, for they will not let their Money lie idle.

For being disappointed in this, they will put their Money where they think they can get the most by it, some into Merchandize, some into the South-Sea, some into the East-India, and other Stocks, which will make the Stocks rise of Course, and the Money will Circulate and Revive Trade, which now lies Languishing even to death.

I had likewise propos'd a Fund for raising a Tax to pay off this Lottery; but finding that your Honours have already fixed on one, makes me forbear offering mine.

And the First and Last drawn Tickets of each of the Ten Lotteries will be respectively entituled to one of the said Benefits of 500 l. abovementioned, to be contained in each of the said Ten Lotteries
